Knowing the cost of attendance and the date that your financial aid will be disbursed can help you budget and better plan the financing of your education. The cost of education components include: tuition, fees, books, room, board, miscellaneous, and transportation. They are based on average costs for an academic year. Our office takes the cost of attendance into consideration, along with your financial need, when awarding scholarships, work-study and loans. The combination of any federal, state and institutional aid cannot exceed the cost of attendance. The official cost of attendance is based on the following expenses:
